Why China?

Whether known for its vast strides as an economic powerhouse or as a country molded by its ancient history, China is a fascinating place. You could stay here for decades and will be attracted to the culture what hundreds of local minorities and thousands of years have contributed to; in fact, many people do.

The People's Republic of China instituted many economic reforms in 1978, contributing a more market-based economy than in previous years. China has averaged 10% economic growth every year since the beginning of Deng Xiao Ping's reforms started over thirty years ago. Mainland China has become the manufacturer and credit lender of many western developed countries. As its grown and open policy continues to remain strong, career opportunity in China continues to grow for foreign citizens.

Currently, Beijing is our main market, we are going to open up more cities in future and some are on the schedule already like Nantong, Suzhou, and Zhengzhou etc.

Why Beijing?

Vast economic growth and openness has transformed Beijing to the second largest city in China, so you can indulge yourself in its unique renaissance. This capital city's role as the center of power and a major economic engine has created a booming culture as Beijing opens China to the world.
