

Flourish is an enterprise education programme operating in Beijing public schools. Enterprise education, at the very forefront of global education, helps students to communicate confidently, work effectively in small groups, develop ideas positively in the face of unknown challenges, and prepare for success in school, work, and life. This involves techniques and approaches including mindfulness, drama, debate, and presentations.

We have been running for 18 months and have delivered our programme to over 20 schools in Dongcheng district. In addition to teaching, we have also had the opportunity to:

- provide demonstration classes to audiences of public school teachers and education bureau officials
- design original, tailored curriculum to help our students be internationally competitive
- create an original textbook featuring illustrations from Beijing-affiliated artists
- prepare students to perform a Shakespearean play
- run workshops with local public school teachers on enterprise education techniques

Responsibilities:

- Deliver Flourish workshops to group classes of 12 - 45 students
- Collaborate with our team to develop and adapt programme curricula
- Report on progress through continuous feedback and assessment
- Attend and participate in project meetings, trainings and events
- Reflect on project needs and suggest innovative approaches to achieve long-term goals
- Be a positive and professional Flourish ambassador

Benefits:

- Experience the diversity of public schools in Beijing
- Gain a deep understanding of working within government projects
- Work closely in a small team where everyone has a big voice
- Develop personally and professionally in a challenging but supportive work environment
- Inspire and educate hundreds of students over the course of the year
